Galway's Land Position and Regional Geology

"Getting a foothold in two dynamic and exciting gold trends, we believe, is great news for the company. Securing a land package that sits on strike with two major gold projects, along with our recent Vetas acquisition, makes us extremely enthusiastic about the company's future." cites Robert Hinchcliffe, President and CEO of Galway Resources.

“Galway is at a point where you want to buy before the drill results. Favorable results from the early drilling by Galway would have an immediate impact on the share price, in the context of the adjacent property. Regardless of the first assays, Galway has tremendous scope on its three properties to eventually turn up results that will push the value higher.”
